

7-CT. FARE SEEN BY HAWKNER

Gas Rates Also Due to Drop Soon, Says Congressman. Favors Public Ownership.

Reduction in fares and gas must come soon in Washington, Congressman William C. Hammer of North Carolina, member of the District Committee, declared today.

He predicted a 7-cent fare within the next few months.

TOO HIGH, HE SAYS.

"Washington is paying entirely too much to ride on the street cars," said Congressman Hammer, "and I believe that the gas company is earning more than it should. I intend to fight for a reduction in the cost of both utilities."

Congressman Hammer said in event of the failure to merge the two companies, then public ownership is the only way out.

"I think it would be a good idea to experiment with public ownership of railroads here. However, I would not suggest such action by Congress unless I was more than reasonably sure that this is the only way to bring about a reduction of fares," he said.

Congressman Hammer has drafted a bill relating to the gas situation here and he intends to have the District Committee go into the operation of the gas company with a view to determining whether or not a material reduction in costs could be made.

UNVEILING TODAY WILL HONOR G. U. WORLD WAR DEAD

Graduates and Alumni to Join in Service—Athletic Meet This Afternoon.

Two class-day events this evening will feature the second day of the 122nd annual commencement exercises of Georgetown University.

The entire student body of the school of law and numerous visiting alumni members will assemble in the law library at 8:15 o'clock to honor their classmates who made the supreme sacrifice during the World War. With impressive services a bronze memorial tablet erected by the students of the law school in honor of the twenty-eight men who gave their lives will be unveiled by Capt. David Wolverson, U. S. A., of the senior class.

Dean George E. Hamilton and other members of the law school faculty will hear the presentation address by John Marshall Karna, of Illinois, president of the senior class.

Georgetown law school will hold the first class day in its history in connection with the unveiling and Francis William Cullen, '21, of New York, president of the Senior Debating Society, will preside. The class oration will be delivered by Harlan Wood, '21, of South Carolina. Thomas Edward O'Hern, '21, of Ohio, will be the historian; Harry Hallam, '21, of Maryland, the prophet, and William Alonzo Dyke, '21, of New York, will recite the class poem. The valedictory address will be made by Henry Clarence Churchman, '21, of Iowa.

In the afternoon graduates and alumni will meet at athletic events on the college field. These start at 2 o'clock and at 4 o'clock the alumni will play the seniors for the baseball championship.

At 6 o'clock the reunion banquet for members of the five and ten-year classes will be held in the Ryan dining hall at the Hilltop with the college class day exercises following at 8:15 o'clock.

The feature of the evening will be the Cohogurton oration taken from the Indian name for the Potomac river, meaning the River of Swans, by B. Meredith Reid, '21. Dressed in full Indian regalia he will stand in the light of a wigwag fire in front of the Old North building and deliver the farewell of the senior class to the Potomac that flows at the foot of Georgetown hill. The orator for the class of 1919 will be Louis A. Langie, of New York, while Robert J. Riley, of West Virginia, will speak for the class of 1920.

Others on the program are Edward F. A. Mack, A. B., '20, Master's oration; Thomas A. Vogel, doctor's oration; and Leo J. Casey, class ode.

William L. Leroy, a senior actor, who graduated from Georgetown College in the class of 1881 furnished the surprise of last night's program. He came especially to attend the commencement week, and took a room at the college, where he could mix with the boys. Mr. Lackaye readily responded to the request for recitations at the out-door exercises in the quadrangle. Murray L. MacIntyre, president of the year, presided.

The election of James A. Farrell, president of the United States Steel Corporation, as a member of the board of regents to succeed the late Anthony A. Hirst, of Philadelphia, was announced last night by the Rev. John B. Creeden, S. J., president of the University.

Georgetown's exercises will close with the graduation tomorrow afternoon at 4:15 o'clock when Secretary of the Navy Denby will make the address. In the evening the school of foreign service will hold its annual banquet.

Teachers to Hear Peyton.

Fountain Peyton, retiring member of the Board of Education, will address the Parent-Teacher Association of the Thaddeus Stevens Public School at the school auditorium tomorrow night at 8 o'clock.

VETS' HONOR ROLL TO PROTEST SIMS' 'JACKASS' SPEECH

Padrac Pearse Council to Publish Names of 5,000 D. C. Irish Who Fought in War.

The names of 5,000 District of Columbia soldiers, sailors and marines of Irish lineage who fought in World War will be published by the American Association for the Recognition of the Irish Republic as a protest to the recent "jackass" speech of Admiral Sims. This action was taken at a meeting of the Padrac Pearse Council at a meeting held last night in the hall of the Irish Republic.

Ross F. Downing, president of the State directorate of the association, declared that a few more speeches from Admiral Sims will make the Irish Republic a reality and the press more pro-Irish than the Sinn Feiners.

"We are going to show this man who has been casting aspersions on good Americans, the names of 5,000 District of Columbia men who fought and died in the last war for the Stars and Stripes next to the banner of St. George, which they despised," said Mr. Downing.

At the meeting of the Padrac Pearse branch of the Friends of Irish Freedom, held last night in Typographical Temple, the Rev. Thaddeus O'Sullivan, Rector of the District of Columbia, denounced Admiral Sims for his recent speech.

"The English are laughing at his assestment and will soon be apt to use him as a laughing stock," said O'Sullivan. "The resolution of denunciation was adopted. F. Edward Mitchell presided at the meeting."

MARRIED WOMEN RISE AS JOBS WITH U. S. ARE MENACED

"Put Out, the Family Groups," Is Cry of One Who Helps Support Children.

Should a married woman rush into the divorce court in pursuit of a release from her marriage bonds in order to retain her job as a Government worker?

A married War Risker asks the question.

"Those of us who happen to be married aren't being given sufficient time to institute divorce proceedings before the ax that amputates our job will fall," she says.

"Married women, many of them faithful, conscientious workers employed in my section," says this woman, "may not be quite as rapid, but they are likewise not as 'fast' as some of the young unmarried women. Their work is well done and they lose little time in powdering their noses and using the lipstick and eyebrow pencil.

WOULDN'T BE GOOD ORNAMENTS.

"They spend little time in jolly or in being jolled, for they know their positions depend on their work and their work alone. They realize that as office ornaments they would not be successful.

"Is it fair to penalize a woman for being married? I know of several women whose husbands, hard-working men, found their salaries totally inadequate during the past few years to feed, clothe and educate their families. In order that the children might be kept in school, the mother entered the Government service to keep things going.

"And I know of girls who boast that they spend every cent of their salary on dressing and having a 'good time'.

BAR 'FAMILY GROUPS.'

"Would it not be better to draw the line upon the employment of several members of one family in the Government service? I know of one woman who is rendering faithful service, but her husband and daughter hold good positions in the service, and her own salary is inadequate to support the family. It is too lonely to remain at home. There are other cases of husbands in public service whose salaries have been increased from time to time, but their wives are also employed, and together they ride around in automobiles.

"In the majority of cases married women are working because they must, to educate their children and to help pay for their homes. Releasing a woman just because she is married is not always just. Those who employ should release those on their lists who belong to a family group, all of whom are making money at the expense of some married woman with dependents."

SAYS MOTHERS ARE IN SERVICE.

Maintaining that failure to recognize the right of every citizen to attain the fulfillment of their desires irrespective of their married status is nothing short of a crime to the Times her belief that mothers are as much in the nation's service as any ex-service men.

No strong, virile nation has ever perished, she said, because of the failure of its women to support the nation's honor and its people's welfare. Nor has any nation advanced rearing children of such unions in squalor, ignorance and unhealthy conditions. Women, then, she asserted, are in the great humanitarian service of life, when they marry and bear children.

THEY DON'T DESERT CHILDREN.

"Having completed that part of their appointed duty, would they not indeed be deemed slackers, should they desert the children and leave the helpless children upon the care of the public or the sole protection of fathers?"

"Few women do desert at this critical time. Their conception of their duty to their children and to their country makes them willing, in order to accomplish the completion of their own work, to begin another service under a new enlistment, that of breadwinner and provider."

"There are still other instances of transmuted motherhood, where married women without children are valiantly assuming the responsibilities of caring for motherless children, or of prohibiting their becoming wage earners themselves or perhaps invalid mothers and fathers. Shall women be denied the inalienable right to fulfill their own destinies as wives and mothers, be penalized if their only fault be their willingness to expend their energy in preventing their loved ones from becoming public charges or being cast upon the world until to become the highest type of citizens."

NAVY BAND TO GIVE VARIED PROGRAM TONIGHT

WORLD'S BIGGEST WATCH HAS 9-FOOT MAINSPRING

The largest watch ever known to be manufactured is being exhibited in the priceless collection of the Government and housed in the National Museum. It was manufactured by a big watch making company of Lancaster, Pa., and was loaned to the Government for two months for exhibition purposes.

This mastodon among chronometers measures 19 1/2 inches in diameter, is 1 1/2 inches thick and has a main spring 9 feet long. It is an exact duplicate of the standard twenty-three-jewel watch of commerce, the jewels being synthetic stones. The timepiece was constructed at a cost of $5,000 and represents some of the finest workmanship of its kind in the world.

The "train," the wheels which run it, is of solid gold, with the cogs in the teeth treated specially to harden them against wear. The winding is all of steel. Although it has a nine-foot mainspring, the watch is run by a weight.

THIRD D. C. INFANTRY WILL MEET TO FORM GARRISON

Surviving members of the old drum corps of the Third District of Columbia Infantry, which lost 95 per cent of its buglers in action on the French front, will meet tonight in the National Guard Armory, 472 L street northwest.

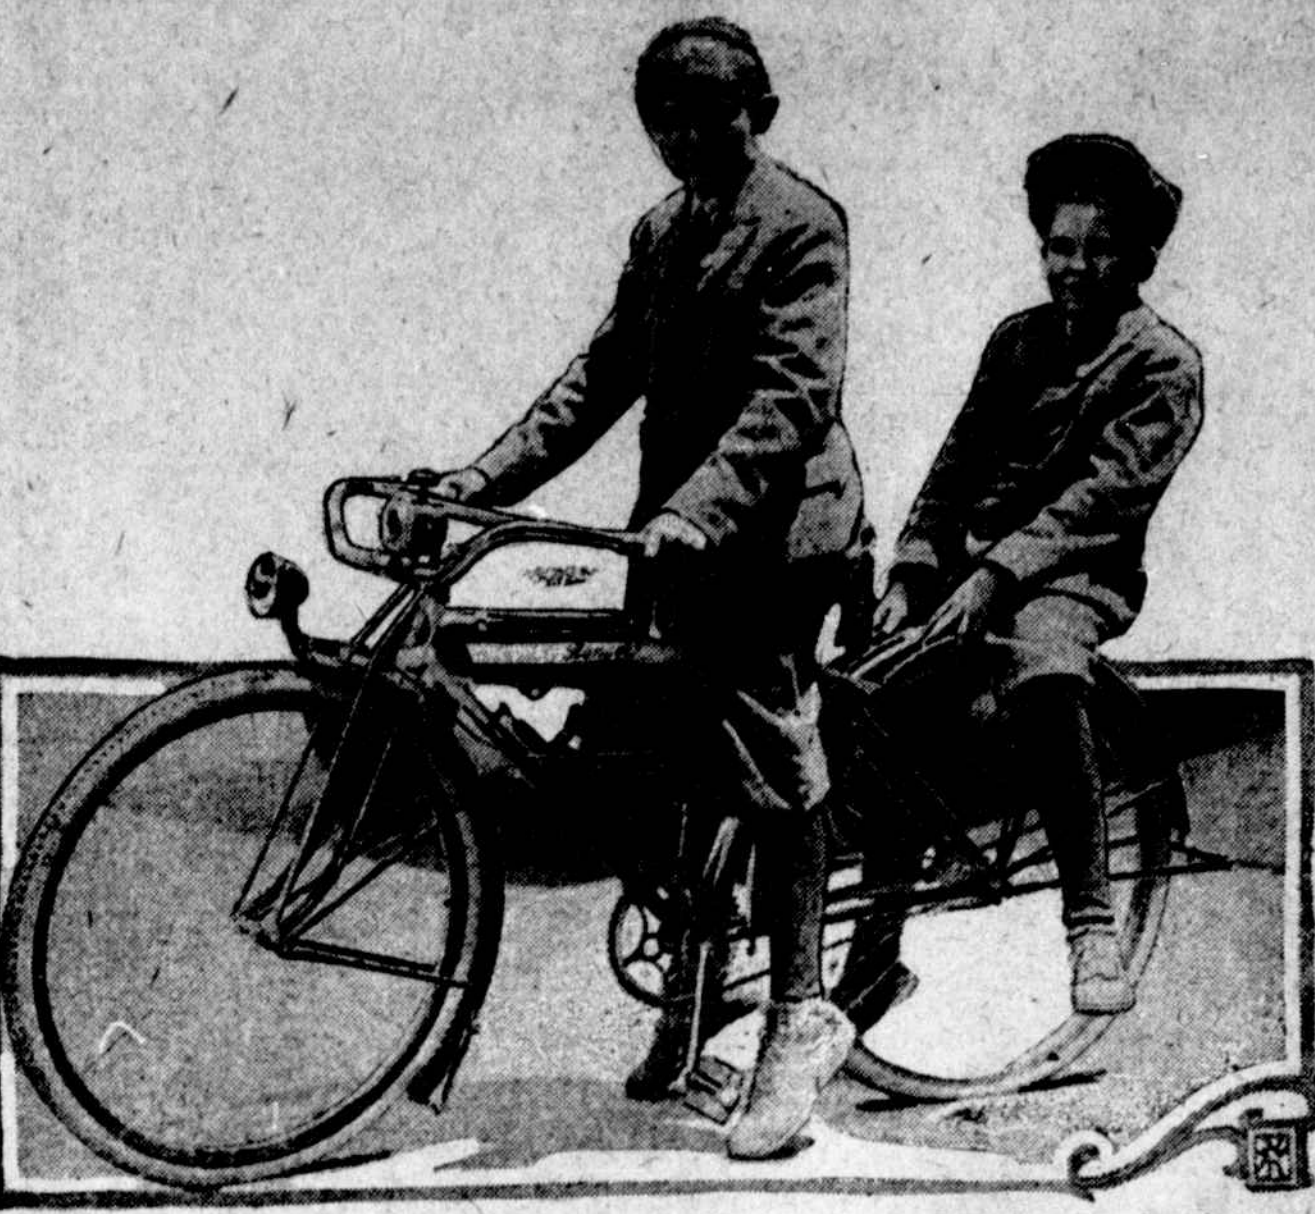

Plans will be discussed for the forming of a garrison of the Army and Navy Union, to be named, in honor of two buglers killed in action, the Fuchs-Pagan Garrison.

Membership is offered to any members who served, either in war or in peace time.

Gail Thurman Judd, past garrison commander of the President's Own Garrison, will assist in forming the garrison. Henry C. Loveless, sergeant bugler Third Infantry, and first sergeant of the headquarters company of the present District National Guard, will be in charge of the meeting.

The present drum corps, under command of Sergeant Loveless, will make an outing trip up the Potomac June 24.

TWO LITTLE DOVES ON THE WING: RIDING A FREE TIMES BICYCLE

Here we have Robert and Paul Dove, of 1536 Sixteenth street northwest, who say they are "the happiest boys in Washington" since they received a $60 Ranger bicycle from The Washington Times for the trivial task of obtaining thirty-five new yearly subscribers for this paper. The chummy little brothers worked together and made quick work of signing up the required number of subscribers. It took them only two afternoons and they are immensely proud of their achievement and their gift from The Washington Times.

WORKERS SPEED TO GET BIKES IN TIMES CONTEST

"They're Going Like Hotcakes," Says Manager As Scores Join in Race.

"These $60 Rangers are going like hot cakes on a frosty morning," said the manager of The Washington Times $300,000 Bicycle Contest today.

"The children and grown-ups in this man's town are certainly keeping up busy certifying subscriptions and turning over clasy bikes to them. Let them come, the more the merrier. The Washington Times has bought and paid for these 5,000 bicycles and somebody's got to get them."

His remarks were born of the fact that for the past week there has been a steady stream of children and adults to The Washington Times Bicycle headquarters, 1222 F street northwest, bringing in thirty-five new yearly subscribers each and claiming a brand-new, completely-equipped $60 bicycle in return for their few hours' effort.

FIRE LADDIE GETS BIKE.

Announcement of the fact that Fireman Anthony J. Wernig, of No. 7 Engine Company, had been given one of these bicycles served to spur on other adults, particularly members of the Fire Department, who took the view that if this fire laddie could get the required number of subscribers during the few leisure hours he has off duty almost anybody in Washington and its suburbs could do likewise.

The sum and substance of the whole matter is this: If you walk to and from work these hot days or have to pay carfare to get out into the country it is your own fault, because there is a nifty $60 bicycle waiting for you at 1222 F street northwest. Get thirty-five subscribers for twelve months for The Washington Times and claim your wheel.

Judging from statements made by persons to whom bicycles have already been given, considerable of a thrill of joy is registered by the recipients.

BOYS THANK TIMES.

For instance, here is a letter from Robert and Paul Dove, of 1536 Sixteenth street northwest, who got the necessary subscribers in two afternoons and received a $60 Ranger:

"Bicycle Contest Manager:

"We surely thank The Washington Times for giving us the opportunity to secure a bicycle which we have been wanting for so long and we also thank our dear good friends for helping us get the required number of subscribers so quickly. We know they will enjoy The Washington Times as much as we will enjoy our bicycles.

"We are the happiest boys in Washington today and hope all the boys and girls and grown-ups, who have entered this race will be successful and get bicycles. Oh, boy! it seems just like a dream, that we really have a real, honest-to-goodness bicycle. Thanks again to The Washington Times and our friends."

That's the way it goes. Everyone who has received a $60 Ranger bicycle from The Washington Times has been most enthusiastic over the contest and the reward. The task of getting your subscription book so simple, easy and pleasant that as one winner put it, "it almost takes your breath away because of the quickness of the whole thing and the beauty of the bicycle."

3 BOYS HERE ON WAY TO ENGLISH STOCK SHOW

En route to Derby, England, where they will attend the English Royal Live Stock Show, three boys from farms in Texas arrived in Washington today, where they will remain two days as guests of the Government.

Accompanied by Secretary of Agriculture Wallace, the boys will meet President Harding this afternoon and will then be taken for an auto ride around the city by O. B. Martin, of the Department of Agriculture.

The boys are G. W. Welting, of Falls county; Jack Turner, of Hill county, and Alva Dehann, of Dawson county. In competition with boys of thirteen States, these three won the first prize in judging live stock at the Southeastern Fair at Atlanta, Ga., and the prize given by the fair management was the trip to England. They will sail from New York on the Carmania, Wednesday.

DIVORCES BLAMED FOR DELINQUENCY OF CHILDREN HERE

Lack of Playgrounds Also Found Large Factor in Misbehavior of Juveniles.

The increased number of divorces and separations in the District of Columbia is responsible, to a large extent, for the big number of juvenile delinquency cases in Washington, according to the semi-annual report of the Juvenile Protective Association.

Out of 350 cases referred to the association during the past six months, it was found that the separation of the child from one or both parents was most often at fault, truancy second, and lack of proper recreation third. This last is noted as the cause of delinquency in sixty-one cases, showing the vital need of more playgrounds in the District.

In addition to providing mental and physical examination and care, the association provided proper recreation for the children needing it.
